

CIHR IRSC

Canadian Institutes of Health Research
Instituts de recherche en santé du Canada

Looking Back to Move Forward: New Brunswick's focused approach toward economic and social inclusion

May 29, 2019

Fredericton, New Brunswick

Collaboration...

CIHR
IRSC

Canadian Institutes of Health Research

Instituts de recherche
en santé du Canada

CIHR's Best Brains Exchange (BBE) Program

Key Details

In-camera

Discussions

Presentations

Housekeeping

Today's discussion will address the following policy questions:

1. Gain a comprehensive understanding of current key drivers of poverty in New Brunswick and examine research evidence related to the determinants of such drivers;
2. Explore best practices and lessons learned from proven poverty reduction interventions and models from across other jurisdictions, with specific attention on initiatives that are regional or provincial in scope or are proven to be scalable projects;

Today's discussion will address the following policy questions:

3. Based on the evidence shared at the BBE, prioritize the top key considerations that must be addressed to support the reduction of poverty within each of the four sectors (citizens, non-profit organizations, businesses and government) for the next economic and social inclusion plan;

4. Identify opportunities and approaches for key stakeholders in the four sectors to support Overcoming Poverty Together Plan (OPT3) and contribute to poverty reduction in New Brunswick, considering:

- Actions need to be measurable
- Actions should have the potential for scalability in either a rural or urban environment.

Before We Start...

There are no
'bad' questions

Chatham House
Rule applies

Complete the evaluations
(please)

Enjoy the day.
Speak your mind.
Thank you for coming!

Discoveries for life

Table Discussions:

- Top Priorities for NB
- What are the challenges in relation to the top priorities